

To ASUG's BusinessObjects Community,

Most of you are aware that ASUG's Leadership Team is discussing our options for when and where to hold the 2014 ASUG SAP BusinessObjects User Conference – chiefly, whether to co-locate the event with SAP TechEd in Las Vegas.

We hoped to have this settled by this year's SAP TechEd conference, being held October 21-25, but we don't have a decision to announce yet. We are still evaluating the logistical, financial, and educational impacts that a co-located event would entail.

Our top priorities are ensuring the unparalleled education and networking experiences that the ASUG SAP BusinessObjects User Conference provides, and that the voice of this community remains among the best represented in the SAP ecosystem. And we'd like to thank those of you who have already provided input on next year's conference.

We will communicate the final decision to the community as soon as possible, though it will not be during SAP TechEd next week.

Rest assured that our goal is, and always will be, to put on a world-class event that provides unmatched educational, networking, and community-building opportunities for our members.

Thank you,
Abbe Mulders
Interim COO, ASUG
